GRAMME OF TUESDAY NIGHT.

The Inauguration of the Campaign by the Greeley and Brown Club Wednesday.

CEN. LEACH, SPEAKER JARVIS AND F H. BUSBEE ON THE STAND AT FARMERS' HALL.

Great Enthusiasm—Old Cumberland Good for Greeley by at Least 200 Majority.

Owing to the short space of time at our disposal Tuesday night, to make State; while even cabinet ministers the mail, our article in yesterday's issue was necessarily cut off at the most interesting stage of the proceedings.

As stated yesterday, Mr. John W. Rose, a prominent young lawyer of Fayetteville, introduced the Hon. D. M. Barringer, who came forward on the most substantial victory-a victory of balcony.

SUBSTANCE OF THE REMARKS OF THE HON. D. M. BARRINGER.

As soon as the applause, with which the introduction of the Honorable gentleman was received, by the large crowd assembled in front of the Fayetteville Hotel, Mr. B. said that he most cordially thanked them all for the very kind manuer in which his name had been rethe more effectually will we be enabled ceived by them. Although he had at first hesitated about coming to this grand demonstration, because of some physical indisposition, and his constant labor in other duties in behalf of our cause, he now rejoiced that he was here to-night to witness this grand success and the patriotic zeal and energetic spirit by which it had been achieved, place herself squarely on this liberal It there was a city or town in our good movement-for such a consummation old State, that had a deep and permanent hold on his affections, it was this noble, patriotic, historic and renowned old city of Fayetteville. Her people had been the friends of freedom, and civil liberty, in its truest and largest sense, since the days of the Revolution to the present hour. Fayetteville had been endeared to him by the earliest and most pleasant associations of his life. He was born by a little exertion on their part we can labor of the West, into the lap be enabled to accomplish much good of Fayetteville, adding daily immense treasure to the wealth and prosperity once so fully enjoyed by her merchants and her whole community. He was en-deared, too, to this city, by the recollections of early and permanent friendships formed with her rising young men in the spring-tide of life-friendships which ended only by the death of so many of them in the years that are gone. Winslows-your Huskesand others well known in your history, were my companions in Academie groves and College Halls. In atter life, also-on the stage of public action-in our Legislature, and in Congress, I was the associate of your Toomer-your Eccles-your Scawellyour Henry--your Strange--your Dobbin, and other distinguished gentlemen I could name; men of character and fame, not only for their usefulness, but times, too, you have fully illustrated the public spirit and ardent patriotism, for which your town and county have

At the first moment that you had a chance since the war, you triumphed, in this city and county, over all the power and patronage of the government, most unscrupuously used against you, in the election of your most excellent Conservative ticket in 1870, which did you so much honor and useful service in the last Legislature. And again in the great contest of this year on the 1st of this month, against still greater odds, and a still more un-scrupulous use of government patronage and influence, you succeeded in your county ticket, and especially in

CONTINUATION OF THE PRO- you to night. You have cause for joy and greeting-for bonfires, illuminating, and mutual congratulations. Our cause has achieved a substantial victory in North Carolina. While, because of gross fraud, violations of the election laws, fraudulent returns, intimidation of voters, appeals to the fears, hopes and avarice of timid and weak-kneed voters, and all the influence, power, money and official patronage of the governments, State and National, through marshals, collectors and assessors, and their deputies-spies and deand the candidate for Vice President himself, were brought into the field against us, in the most shameless and unblushing audacity against the freedom of elections, and we might well have expected under all these adverse circumstances, an entire defeat, yet we have won, against all these odds, a tax-paying people of North Carolina, over ignorance, official corruption, and incapacity. The purse strings of our good old State are still in the hands of honest legislators, (applause) and the people who pay taxes have still an assurance that their rights will be protected against the vile spirit of public plunder and rapacity. (Applause.)

Although mostly behind the scenes. and not much on the public stage in the great work, through which we have just passed, allow me to say, without vanity or egotism, no man in the State has been so familiar with the great odds against which the good people, who only wished honest administration under good laws, had to contend than myself. I was in a position to have daily information of all the influences that were brought to bear against us, and how all the departments of the general government, even the Post Office Department, which ought, above all others, to be free, untrammelled and unsuspected, employed all the means in their power to defeat an honest expression of the people of this State at the ballot-box. In the position to which I was called by the State Convention, at Greensboro, and raised near the great highway over by the representatives of the free and which were transported, in the intelligent voters of North Carolina, I earlier and most prosperous days of this had opportunities to know what we had good old town, the rich products of the to contend against-and endeavored. fertile valleys of the Yadkin and Cataw- as far as in me lay, to counteract it .-ba and a large portion of the entire I have tried to do my duty. We have unmistakably five of the eight Congressmen from this State, good and true men, that will do honor as in the olden time-the better and purer days of the Republic -- to our State, (applause.) And we have come so near the election of our State ticket, Governor and all, that nothing but an official count, and a thorough and honest investigation of the gross frauds and irregularities, and violations of the law in the exercise of the great elective franchise, can really decide who is the legally elected Governor of North Carolina, to be installed on the 1st of Janu-Dr. H. For the first time, in these seven long years of trial and oppression, we feel that the North is in real earnest for peace and good will between the sections, not the hollow and cant phrase of "Let us have peace," when no peace is meant, except the peace which made quiet and order in Warsaw, but a real fraternity between the North and the South, and the East and the West and every portion of this great Republic, where all men and all States are, under the Constitution, to be recognized, only on the platform of perfect equality .-(Applause.) A SUGGESTION.

We respectfully suggest to the State Executive Committee, the propriety of appointing in every County in North Carolina, an active, zealous, intelligent Democrat, as a Committee-man, to examine the Registration books and election returns of every Township in his County, with the view of ascertaining every fraudulent and illegal vote ware, in infinite variety and of the finest east in the late election.

The Committee man so appointed should be instructed to obtain all reliable evidence in every instance of the violation of the election law, including the panies of witnesses and the purport

He should be further instructed to end all such information, stating particularly what can be positively proved, to the State Executive Committce before the meeting of the Legisla-

The individual thus designated for each County should be appointed as soon as practicable. He should be the right man in the right place. His chief qualifications should be activity, reliability and intelligence. He should be allowed a liberal compensation for his services-such as will justify him to forsake all other business, and devote his time exclusively to the duties of his appointment, until each individual case of fraud shall have been ferreted out and exposed.

By this course, we will be enabled to ascertain the truth of the charges of corruption in our State election, and thus viadicate the purity of the ballotbox in North Carolina, and at the same time uphold and maintain the sacred, tundamental right of the people to choose their own officers.

The teller finally proceeded to the Merchants and Farmers' Bank, near by, for the required amount and, having obtained it returned again to the vault, but still the door would Atl efforts proving unavailing, a locksmith was summoned and the outer door forced, when the same trouble was encountered with the inner door. Here the lock worked, but still the door would not open, and the suspicions of the bank clerks were fully aroused. After an hour's labor the lock was removed, and the door opened. when a glance at the interior explained the whole matter. The doors of three screw, large enough to lift a steam engine, and a large chunk of cast-iron. about a foot square, broken from one of the inner safes, were first seen, and in the rear corner, immediately over the safe, was seen a hole through the wrought iron side of the vault large A glance through this hole by Mr. Mediary exposed the scene of opperations through the ragged carved out wall of the two buildings, leading into the rear room of the adjoining house, the old Gittings bank. Intense excitement naturally followed this discovery. The bank clerks looked aghast, but this was no time for idle inactivity, and a hurried consultation suggested the propriety of entering the Gittings building. This was soon done by means of a front window, and upon entering a scene of indescribable disorder was developed. The front office is a room about 18 by 40 feet with desks surmounted by a railing and wire screens in front running the length of the room. In the rear of the desk room were found the remains of the contents of the bank's vault, excepting, however, bonds, stocks, &c. Upon the floor were scattered innumerable checks, promissory notes, drafts, securities, and bills payable, while on the desk were piled up some fifteen tin boxes which had contained money and valuables, each with the lock forced and the contents abstracted, except when they happened to be of a negotiable value. Examining the floor there were found deeds of properties, insurance policies, property assignments, certificates of marriage, quantities of silverware, &c., ail in such of a May day morning. Mention was made of the finding of a jack serow and other articles in the vault. Upon a desk in the principal unmindful of their appetites. Beneath the counter were found several bottles, containing the remnant of liquors, two half broiled chickens, pieces of toasts, two loaves of bread, several lemons, and other things suggestive of creature comfort. Near by, on a desk, were discovered a batch of burglars tools, comprising bits, drills, files, chisels, gimblets, an auger, several lock-picks, in fact a very respectable assortment of hardkind, some of these packages of hard-ware being intact, and many bearing the names of prominent Chicago firms, which would lead to the idea that the Stabler & Co., firm came from the West. A bundle of clothing was also found, with overalls, slippers, knee pads, and everything else required for quiet and Immediately in the rear of the main or front office are two rooms about 9x16 feet each, neatly carpeted, formerly used as private rooms for the old Gittings banking house. One of these had been relieved of the carpet by the robbers, and was recognized as vacant." The other, adjoining the National Bank building, was the workng-room of the burglars, and a glance at the interior before it was disturbed, after the robbery, would have convinced any one, no matter how ignorant of such matters, that the thieves were decided graduates in their nefarious profession, and had done their work, as the detective properly remarked, in "artistic" style. Entering this room, the first thing seen was a huge hole in the wall about 6 feet by 5, gradually narrowing down to the vault wall-of iron and brick-to about eighteen inches. Around this hole was noticed a stripe, exposing marks of paste, indicating that a dark curtain had been drawn over from day to day during operations.

The wall was found to be 33 inches thick to the vault side. Here they encountered half inch boiler iron. To drill through this three heavy timbers were provided, taken in separately, as was shown, and afterwards nailed together. This joined timber was just arge enough to rest against the opposite wall, and formed a solid support for a powerful half inch drill; with this over 100 holes were drilled through the outer plate and by filing it was soon removed. Beyond this was encountered ten inch brick wall, the inner wall of the vault built of black burned brick and cement, and supposed to be very solid. This also was easily picked out, with their admirable tools, and the cement deposited so carefully in an empty drawer as to avoid even seiling the carpet on the floor.

It may be wondered how all this could be done. Although none but the All-seeing Eye and their own were cog nizant of what was doing, still do the surroundings, with circumstantial evidence, tell the tale plainly. On June 1st two respectable looking men applied to Mr. John S. Gittings to rent the premises tor a wholesale grain brokerage establishment. They were apparently supplied with plenty of funds. and cheerfully paid $650 (one quarter's rent) in advance. They entered the premises, spread out a set or books on the desks, and seemed to be doing bu siness-through their accomplices, of course. Mr. Sauerhans, the agent of Mr. Gittings, frequently noticed their Just received business activity, and on Friday last was summoned by the senior to make some repairs in the cellar, noticing nothing unusual when he called. Their operations, judging from appearances, must have been begun weeks ago, and although two cart loads of brick were removed, so quielly did they operate that the watchman, an ex-policeman, named Michael Burnett, never suspected aught. It is supposed they did they their work in the day time, relying upon the noise to deaden the sound of their labors, and this supposition would seem to be confirmed by a statement made, that on Sunday week last, Mr. Joseph Manning, a clerk, heard a noise while in the bank, and his companion, Mr. G. W. Hussell, runner for the bank, took the precaution to arm himself with a revolver and search the vault. All was found safe as usual, however, and nothng new coccurred till Saturday last, when Mr. Canby, a director, also heard a noise, and concluded it was from a distillery near by. All these hammerings were doubtless from Stabler & Co. so called, but being beyond two walls, no suspisions were created.

THE ARGUMENT FOR THE COLORED Man.—The persuasive style in which the colored people in the Southern States are talked to by their leaders and guides is exemplified in an address to them at Tallahassa, Florida, by an Hon. Mr. Willis," who told them that Greeley was no more than an old, broken down, one herse editor at best; that he stood no more chance than a stump-tail bull in fly time; that he was always jawing and making speeches everywhere he went like a talkative old woman; that he was an old hard shell Democrat, and could not take the oath even if elected, consequently any colored man would be a fool to vote for him.' The Commissioner of Customs reports the receipt from Customs revenue at New York for the first ten days of this month at $8,553,416. The pressure of business prevents the clerks at that port from sending in the returns promptly. The receipts from Customs revenue for the month of August are estimated at the Treasury Department at $25,000,000.
